TIPS FOR PROPOSAL SUBMISSIONS

To improve your chances for selection, keep in mind the following:

Relevance

1. The topic of the session is timely for the podiatric medical profession today.
2. Attendees will be able to relate to the content and apply what they have learned in their roles.
3. The topic must be something that will attract attendees.

Clarity

1. The abstract and title of the session demonstrate the intent in a clear and concise way—feel free to be creative.
2. Learning objectives are well-defined.
3. The learning level of the presentation is clearly defined and supported by the learning objectives.

Digital Asia strives to include a balance of beginning, intermediate and advance sessions.

4. The format of the session (e.g., workshop, regular session, case study, panel discussion, master class) is clearly noted.

Preparedness

1. The presenter is knowledgeable and experienced on the topic submitted.
2. The presenter will use different ways to engage the attendees throughout the session.
3. The submission is complete, submitted on time, and the presenter is committed to meeting all requirements and expectations.
